TIPS & GOOD TO KNOW

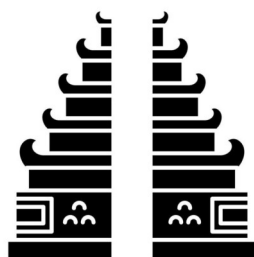

RESPECT

Please respect Bali, its inhabitants and its traditions and religion, so that the island keeps its charm. Keep the 'Bali smile'.

PLEASE NOTE

Attention: The land of the Joglo is still a sacred place to the former landowners. So they still do small ceremonies (done by a single person) on the site on religious high days (only 1 person). We have given them permission to do this and we will inform you before each celebration. It's part of their culture and preserves the place.

TIPS & GOOD TO KNOW

NO WORRIES...

No worries about timeYou 're in Bali...
Never heard before about 'Bali Time' ?

INSECTS, CLIMATE

Bali has a tropical climate: warm, with high humidity, rain showers . This climate and the surrounding rice-fields generate the presence of insects (ants, flies, mosquitoes, etc...), depending on the season. Although the villa receives a monthly (ecological) treatment by a specialized company, the presence of insects may more or less remain periodically persistent (depending on the season).

Also, geckos are part of Bali. Not harmful. Geckos are the best mosquito hunters.

Avoid to store food rests in the kitchen or elsewhere to avoid attraction of insects.

We can not accept any complaints regarding insects or animals, part of the nature of Bali.

Thank you for your understanding.

TIPS & GOOD TO KNOW

SURROUDING RICEFIELDS

We have an incredible view on the surruounding ricefields. And that's quiet becoming a challenge in this aera of Bali .

3 Harvests a year.

This mean that sometimes you can see the local farmers walking and working in their fields.

And 3 times a years, the land of the fields must be plowed by machine which is a bit noisy. Before each new planting of rice plants by hand. And this can start quite early in the morning. We must be patient with the small noise nuisance.

It remains a beautiful sight: the birds that are on the lookout during the plowing, the families who plant the rice by hand.

Enjoy the scenery.
